

On the proposed 5-6 mhz amateur band I strongly object to the exclusion of Amplitude Modulation. AM is a vibrant part of our hobby and leads to much more technical involvement and development than many of the other modes. Qrp cw is a very small part of the hobby and should not have any more of a presence on the new band as any other mode. There is a place for an AM window frequency(s). AM operators are amongst the most courteous and law abiding as well as self policing groups of the hobby. Please allow us to continue to be a good example to others and have a presence on the new band.
